estimated cost of artillery losses

i Starting this May, Ukrainian artillery brigades have an advantage in the counter-battery fight because they receive better intelligence—and because they have a broader arsenal of precision-guided rounds, including Excalibur 155-millimeter shells and M30/31 227-millimeter rockets, both GPS-guided and American-made. We assess the fact that the sustained and continuous destruction of Russian artillery could be the triggering factor for the collapse of the Russian armed forces.
